changing lives.

[Betty Goah]

Betty Goah thought Christians should never “talk the talk” unless they were also willing to “walk the walk.” And so she devoted her life to walking the way of Jesus, working tirelessly as a voice for the voiceless and as an advocate for the powerless. After attending Milligan College and Vanderbilt School of Religion, Betty served on various regional boards and local agencies that assist and support our most vulnerable neighbors. Her vision, passion, and persistence inspired all who met her. Betty was a faithful member of Thankful Baptist Church in Johnson City, Tennessee, until her death in March 2006.

[Milligan College]

For more than 140 years, Milligan’s unique mission has been to prepare men and women as Christian servant-leaders, whatever their profession. Our faculty are among the best in their fields and our academic programs are lauded by accrediting agencies and national organizations. As a Christ-centered community, everything we do at Milligan challenges our students to understand and explore what it means to be a Christian in today’s world. In faithfulness to the teaching of Scripture, we commit ourselves to honoring and broadening the diversity of our community and to treating every person with respect, dignity, and love. We have a close-knit campus community, and with more than 45 student organizations and 20 intercollegiate NAIA sports, there are plenty of opportunities to lead and to serve.

“Betty was a remarkable woman. Her life stands as a powerful testament to what it means to love both God and neighbor.”

– Philip D. Kenneson,
Chair of Biblical Learning
