Fascinated by people and love understanding what makes them tick? The social sciences are united by a focus on understanding the workings of human society.

CURRICULUM  Each major has a specific curriculum to prepare graduates for professional and career success, but human relationships are key throughout the Social Sciences and Education.
- POLITICAL SCIENCE majors study political history, the institutions of government, and the people served by them.
- PSYCHOLOGY majors examine human relationships that focus on self and others.
- SOCIOLOGY majors examine the relationships within and among groups of the world.
- SOCIAL WORK majors pursue a ministry of service to the human community.
- TEACHER EDUCATION students examine the critical relationships between child and caregiver.

INTERNSHIPS & RESEARCH  Practical application of theoretical material as well as opportunity for students to contribute directly to scholarship in their respective fields is encouraged. Political science and pre-law students participate in Model UN and have a chance to debate, write legislation, negotiate, and apply their research to real-life programs in the Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature.

FACULTY  Milligan’s faculty have years of professional and educational experience. Most importantly, they are excellent teachers and caring mentors. Classes are small, allowing professors to interact closely with students for individual attention and supervision.

SUCCESSFUL GRADUATES  Graduates are working in teaching, counseling, coaching, research-related work, clinical psychology, business, social work, juvenile court systems, veterans work, ministry, community and government organizations, non-profit sector, organizational leadership, healthcare administration, pediatric and therapeutic settings, and more. Many have pursued graduate studies at institutions throughout the world.

TEACHER EDUCATION  Teacher licensure students select a major related to what they would like to teach plus complete licensure courses (see website). Teacher candidates get extensive field experience in local schools, working directly with master teachers and mentors. Milligan is accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education.

CERTIFICATE IN LEADERSHIP  A great add-on option for students who want to become effective leaders in their personal, volunteer, and professional lives.
